

Acu News

"A kind word warms for three winters." - Chinese Proverb

WINTER'S ARCHETYPE: THE PHILOSOPHER

Picture that quintessential cozy winter scene: curled up with some deep thoughts and a cup of tea by a fire while an evening snowfall paints the landscape out a frosty window. This is the ultimate haven of winter's archetype: the philosopher. Winter is about the inner journey, and the philosopher represents that journey through calm but discerning introspection. They value thought over action in the quest for truth and are not afraid to go into the dark recesses of the mind to find it.

In Chinese Medicine, winter is the season of extreme yin. Yin represents the receptive energies that balance the active nature of yang. Yin themes include stillness, contemplation and darkness. Also, yin is associated with cold and constriction. Winter is kidney time in TCM and its corresponding element is water. The kidneys are considered the root of our life force, a battery that holds our primal charge. The kidneys also regulate water metabolism in the body and help to keep the fire element in check. Water is an essential source of life associated with the personal and collective unconscious, as well as wisdom and perseverance.

"A river cuts through rock, not because of its power, but because of its persistence" - Jim Watkins

"Water gives way to obstacles with deceptive humility. For no power can prevent it following its destined course to the sea." - Tao Cheng

With every elemental archetype it is vital to find and nurture the balance necessary to express and experience the best traits of each one. This winter, one way to support your water element is with quiet reflective moments, and a cozy safe place to go inward and explore the mysteries of life. Your inner philosopher will reward you with truth, strength and vitality.

See your acupuncturist for more kidney/water element support this winter, including diet and lifestyle tips to balance your unique seasonal and constitutional needs!

DO YOU RESONATE WITH THE PHILOSOPHER? ARE YOU...

- Self-sufficient?
- Scrutinizing?
- Appreciative of alone time?
- Devoted to truth?
- Sometimes susceptible to feelings of fear and isolation or aggressive suspicion? (Depending on patterns of deficiency or excess)
- Willing to persevere?

Dr Marcie Baer, Holistic Wellness & Acupuncture
85 High St, Waldorf, MD
10632 Little Patuxent Pkwy, Columbia, MD
410-992-0080
www.MarcieBaerAcupuncture.com

© 2022 Copyright Acupuncture Media Works/AcuDownloads, All Rights Reserved. The information contained within the AcuNews newsletter is only used to educate and inform. This newsletter is not a substitute for the advice of a licensed and registered health care provider. Seek prompt attention for emergencies. Consult a health care provider for specific health concerns, and before starting a diet, cleanse or exercise routine.
Photo Credits: ©iStock.com/Peter_Vahlersvik, gpointstudio, Wavebreakmedia